Friday, 19 October 2012
4-6:30 p.m. at The Student Life Center

One of the darkest chapters of France's colonial and neo-colonial History remains largely untold: the systematic slaughter of Bassa and Bamileke peoples of West Cameroon, between the dawn of the country's independence and the Conference de la Baule. Sources claim figures of 300 000 to 1 million deaths. In this film, French politicians, intelligence agents, military personnel and activists revisit the atrocities.

Meet filmmaker Valerie Diouf who will present and discuss her film.
